

Grandview artist's work on display

Abstract oil paintings by Grandview Heights artist Brittni Hall will be on display through Feb. 28 at Highline Coffee Art Space, 691 High St. in Worthington.

Hall was one of 14 artists selected to participate in the Emerging Artist program at the Columbus Arts Festival.

A reception is scheduled from 2 to 4 p.m. Jan. 6 at the venue.

The exhibit can be viewed from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

College notes

- Lucas Evans of the Grandview area was named to the fall 2017 dean's list at Belmont University.
- Anthony Tarr of Grandview Heights recently graduated with a master's degree from Ohio Dominican University.

• Eli Reed of the Grandview area was awarded a fall 2017 Theory-to-Practice Grant from Ohio Wesleyan University. The grant supports a project titled

"Racism and Sectarianism: A Comparison Between America and Northern Ireland," which will be conducted in Northern Ireland for 12 days in May with staffers and fellow students.

Moment in time

Twin Rivers Golf Course, originally called Municipal Golf Course, was an 18-hole course on the southeast side of Grandview that opened March 7, 1921. It was bounded by Twin Rivers Drive on the east, Dublin Road to the south and the railroad tracks to the north (to the right of the lake in the photo). The clubhouse (top inset) was located at 860 Dublin Road, just to the left of the lake in the photo. This Grandview landmark was eliminated by freeway construction in 1956. Joe Thomas (bottom inset) was a local golf legend and pro at Twin Rivers. He started as a caddy at Arlington Country Club, and at 17 was the first to hold a caddy pin at the Scioto Country Club when it was dedicated in 1916. When the Twin Rivers course closed, he was asked by then-Columbus Mayor James A. Rhodes to find a venue for another municipal course, and Thomas founded Raymond Memorial Golf Course on Trabue Road. He served as pro there until his retirement in 1968.

Police beat

Delivered packages disappear

Grandview Heights police officers took two reports Dec. 26 of packages that were apparently stolen after delivery.

A resident of the 1200 block of Morning Avenue reported a package containing a cellphone was stolen from her porch. The woman said she received notice that the package had been delivered about 7:30 p.m. Dec. 22, but when she checked her porch that day, the package wasn't there.

An employee of a business in the 800 block of Avondale Avenue told police the company ordered several items weeks earlier that were never received. Online tracking indicated the package was delivered Nov. 3 and left on a dock at the business.

In other recent police reports:

- A woman reported Dec. 22 a video-game box set was stolen overnight from her car while it was parked in the 800 block of Yard Street. A window was smashed to gain entry to the car, reports said.
- A resident of the same block reported Dec. 19 a bicycle was stolen from outside his first-floor apartment.
